The idea behind the original design was to create a very "newsworthy" look, and the way the stories are stacked on top of each other works well in that regard. But the close packing of the text without any white space makes this newsletter look like an instruction sheet for a tax form. Even if you were naturally drawn to the subject matter, you'd have to agree that the initial impression is B-O-R-I-N-G.